DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the guide element" in lines 10 through 11. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Regarding claims 1-14, the phrases "sheet-like" and "gripper-like" render the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "like"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(i), which states:

Wherein the claims sets forth a plurality of elements or steps, each element or step of the claim should be separated by a line indention (See MEPE 608.01(i)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3653

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3, 5, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Glanzmann.

Glanzmann teaches an apparatus for transporting an sheet element, the apparatus comprising at least one rotating transport, 6, for transporting the sheet element from a pickup site to a delivery site and delivering the sheet element there, the rotating transport having at least one gripper element, 12 and 13, into which the leading edge of the sheet is introduced, and including at least one fragmentally existing bending core, 10 and 11, used for curving the sheet element during transport over a rotational or curvature radius, wherein a distance, measure across the curvature path of the sheet element, is variable adjustable between a guide element, 14, and the delivery site to accommodate the length and/or width of the sheet element, see column 4, lines 19+, wherein the guide element, 14, is between the pickup site and the delivery site and maintains the radius of curvature.

He further teaches that the transport includes a body with an essentially circular periphery, and that the apparatus include a majority of gripper pickups arranged in an even distribution over a 360 degrees angle, see figure 1. Finally, Glanzmann teaches that there are several, 10 and 11, coaxial transports spaced from one another and are arranged laterally reversed with regard to a mirror surface perpendicular to the rotation axis, see figure 1 and 2.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 3653

Claims 4 and 6-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

In light of the new reference applied, the examiner has withdrawn the previous indication of allowable subject matter and has rejected amended claim 1, and original claims 3, 5, 13, and 14.
